

For a good cause

The annual meeting of the Khamalaw H. White Foundation was held recently at the Country Buffet in Taylor. The foundation was established to honor the memory of Khamalaw H. White, Inkster High coach, teacher and athletic director. The mission statement of the foundation states: "We are dedicated to providing opportunities for Inkster youth, to give them a better chance to become successful productive citizens, and achieve their fullest potential." The Foundation provides scholarships and other forms of financial aid to deserving students. Membership is open to anyone who is interested in contributing their talents, skills and financial resources to give a child a chance to succeed. Attractive tee-shirts for members may be purchased by contacting President, Dr. Terrel M. LeCesne. 3 local pupils picked to attend Space Camp

A Baylor/Woodson elementary school pupil, along with two students from Westwood and the Wayne-Westland schools, will have the unique experience of visiting Cape Canaveral and the Kennedy Space Center.

The Inkster pupil, Marcus Batson, was one of 51 tri-county elementary and middle school students who have been awarded all-expenses paid scholarships to attend Space Camp at Cape Canaveral in Florida.

The students will leave on Sunday, May 7, and return home on Friday, May 12.

Violence prevention works in Inkster

Recent youth-to-youth violence in schools and neighborhoods has left many parents, educators and child care workers wondering about the effectiveness of programming aimed at at-risk children.

But in Inkster, a pilot program conducted last summer showed a real impact on children's attitudes toward violence.

RESA - the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency.

Marcus joined other campers on March 30 at the Wayne RESA Annex for an orientation session where he learned what to expect and anticipate during the upcoming trip.

The scholarship program, now in its sixth year, is sponsored by the Loctite Corporation. The program allows area youngsters an opportunity to experience, firsthand, the lives of NASA astronauts.

Proceeds from the annual Loctite-Alan Shepard Golf Invitational, sponsored by the Loctite Corporation, provide the funding for the scholarships.

Wayne RESA coordinates the scholarship program.

At the March 30th orientation session, scholarship recipients and parents were able to meet with one another, hear presentations about the space camp program and ask questions.

The Westwood Community School District will also be represented at the camp with talented Gabrielle McLeod, who is a student at the Tomlinson Elementary School, while the Wayne-Westland schools will send Kettering Elementary School pupil, Kaylei Motz to the camp.

Pentecostal plans 40th anniversary celebration

By THEOLA JONES
MCN Special Writer

The congregation of Pentecostal Temple C.O.G.I.C. will be celebrating the 40th Pastoral Anniversary of Elder Isaac King Jr., and his wife Margaret.

The celebration is scheduled for 4 p.m. on April 9 at the church, which is located at 30053 Parkwood Street in the city of Inkster.

Elder King pastoring, preaching, ministering and overall serving the church and the community for the past 40 years.

In addition to residing in the city of Inkster for 30 years, his accomplishments are noteworthy.

King has served as a mentor and supporter for "Save African American Boys (SAAB); past president and secretary of the Inkster Ministerial Alliance; Chaplain for the Inkster Police Department; Superintendent of Agape District; Second Administrative Assistant of the Second Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction of Southwest Michigan; served as Administrator of Inkster Christian Academy, and he is also a lifetime NAACP member.

It has been written that there are five characteristics vital to succeeding as a leader. They are: the ability to inspire, Pastor King never fails to inspire with each sermon he preaches; Possessing a vision. Pastor King's vision of a new spiritual edifice was realized in 1999, with the purchase and the renovation of the present church.

A leader is one who is a role model; one who leads by example. Pastor King is not only faithful to the local church assembly, but to the national church, and to the community.

A leader encourages others and celebrates the successes of others. Pastor King takes time on Sunday morning to acknowledge the accomplishments of the children and other members.

Finally, a leader challenges the status quo, a good leader looks ahead to the future. Pastor King personally aids in the facilitating of the New Members Class on Sunday mornings.

Pastor King has been and remains an exemplary spiritual leader in the Detroit Metropolitan area, and he has demonstrated all of the aforementioned characteristics, in addition to others.

During his 10 years of service, he has touched, inspired, and motivated the lives of many. He is a man of integrity and one who truly has a heart for the people.

Pentecostal Temple C.O.G.I.C., is proud of both the pastor and his wife, who have demonstrated the true meaning of Christian love.

On this 40th anniversary, all well-wishers, members and non-members of the church are invited to join in the planned joyous celebration.

For further information about the upcoming celebration please contact the church office at 734/722-3060.

Public prayers challenged again

By IVAN HELFMAN
MCN Staff Writer

Rev. Cecilia Elbanoski prayed for togetherness in city politics at Monday's Westland City Council meeting. But instead of inspiring harmony, people complained about the public prayer.

"While I very much believe in prayer, there is a time and place," said Normie Brazier. "The city council meeting is not the appropriate place as the meeting is for city business, not religious business. . . . Starting the meeting with prayer is totally inappropriate and no one should foster their religious beliefs on anyone else. Nor force anyone into a prayer since this is everyone's personal, private choice."

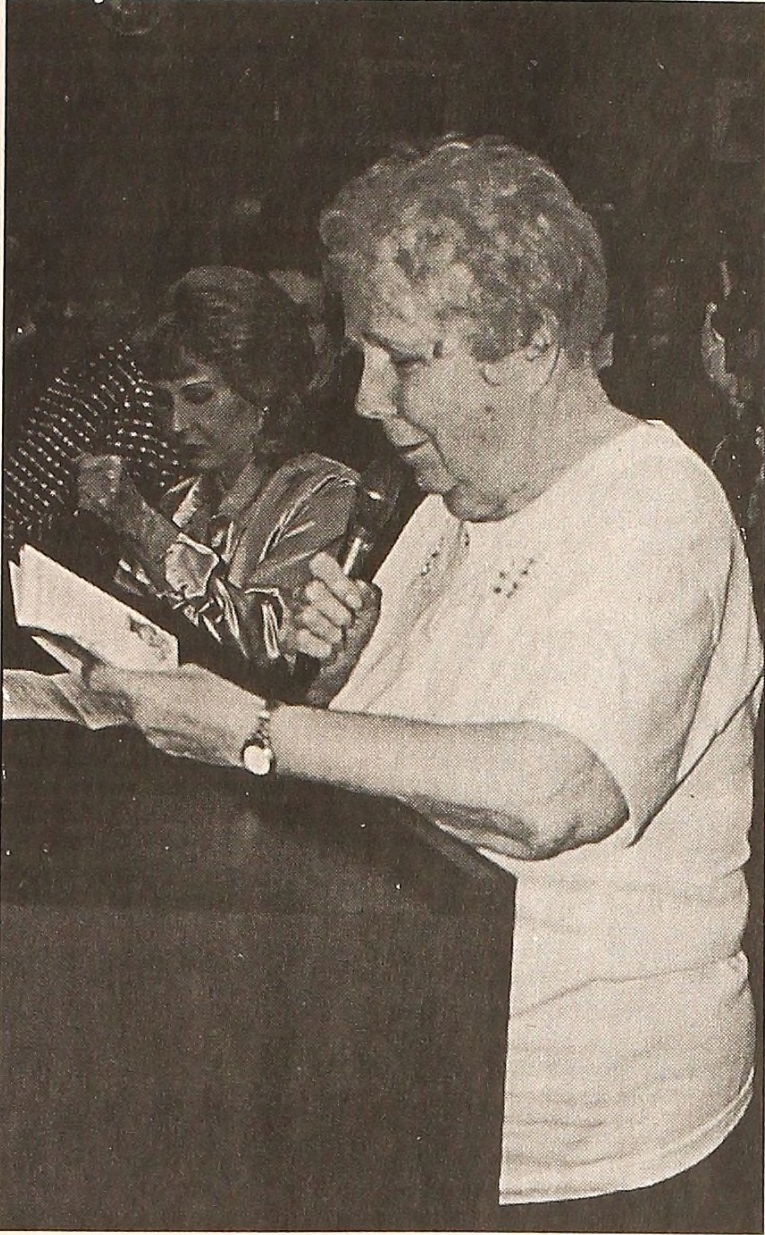

Council President Trav Griffin introduced an invocation with great fanfare at the March 30 meeting, saying that Congress sessions begin with a prayer, but quickly backpedalled after criticism from the public and some council members, putting the practice under review at a subsequent city council study session.

"The prayer is ad hoc," said Griffin. "We have not authorized them to continue. We have a rules and procedures committee that will decide."

"I'm surprised that you authorized reading a prayer," said Henry Morgan, a 35-year resident. "It's strictly unconstitutional, a violation of the first and fourteenth amendments."

"This is neither the time nor place for prayer," said Judy McKinney. "Too many questionable things are happening to be disguised by using religion. Prayers can't cover false faces. The last thing we need now is more hypocrisy."

The council's rules committee won't decide on whether to institute regular prayers at council meetings until City Attorney Angelo Plakas issues a legal opinion on whether allowing a public prayer would open the door for a Satanic minister to recite a prayer to the forces of darkness.

"I can see this has a potential for some problems," Plakas said.

welcome anytime because his car is visible and that keeps the crime away.

Thank you Westland police.

Wayne fire chief could teach Westland chief righteous behavior

I applaud the Wayne Fire Chief's stand against Chief Mark Neal of the Westland Fire Department. Mark Neal [allegedly] has made it his goal to shut down the recall effort of the citizens of this city, has [allegedly] made it a point to intimidate where he deems necessary without thought to his position in this city.

I have heard several comments from people who are involved in the recall as to their concern in this matter:

His [alleged] call to the Wayne Fire Chief stating that the Oddfellow Temple was over capacity due to the people attending the recall meeting, and that the meeting should be shut down, was the height of arrogance. I am quite sure the Wayne Fire Chief and Inspector are capable of determining what is and isn't proper.

I thank them sincerely for their stand, and believe that Wayne could teach the Westland Fire Chief a thing or two.

Citizens need to remember Westland's injustice to Mildred Evans

Media attention of council members Sharon Scott, Dave Cox, Charles Griffin, and David James's politically-motivated ouster of Clerk Pat Gibbon has deservedly disgraced the city and motivated a pay back recall.

But in the rush to redress the wrong done to Mrs. Gibbons, citizens shouldn't forget the worse injustice done to Milly Evans.

Remember Milly?

She was the outspoken elderly lady who was whisked out of town in the middle of the night because she had the audacity to speak at city council meetings.

Fortunately for Pat Gibbons, voters will be able to elect her city clerk in a year.

But what about Milly? What can citizens do to compensate her for the city forcibly relocating her in violation of the US Constitution, not to mention in violation of basic human decency?

On Friday, April 14, from noon to 4:00 p.m., there will be an open house to honor Sylvia A. Kozorosky-Wiacek, who is retiring, and to celebrate her years of service and contribution to the lives of the older adults in the community.

All seniors in the community who want to wish her a fond farewell are welcome! A $5.00 donation per person is asked to help defray costs.

Seniors may sign up at the front desk of the Friendship Center, sign up by mail, or through their various clubs.

Please respond no later than Friday, April 7, 2000.

Please plan to attend: her celebration will not be complete without all those she Kozorosky-Wiacek has helped over the years.

If you have any questions or would like more information, please call 722-7628 or 722-7632.

Letters From Our Readers

Run when a stranger comes up to you, kids

To the Editor:

On the Sunday before the council meeting, I caught a slight cold so I missed going to the meeting.

I watched the last few council meetings and I thought I should respond to a few of them.

Lets start with the last one; responding to a question Sharon Scott said she would not seek another term on the council...but she had not yet made up her mind as to if she would seek the 19th District Rep. Seat or not but she should know shortly..."Hello Sharon" at the council meeting on Feb. 23rd when you weren't there Dave Cox...while going after Glenn Anderson said he knew for a fact you were running he said you told him so. I still have that meeting on tape, and I had a letter in the papers March 9th Sharon.

So Sharon quit beating that dead horse for dramatic effect. I wrote about it March 9th but nice try.

Another one that I have to respond to is little Stevie Johnson who at the council meeting on March 6th when talking about Pat Gibbons said if you have to fly and there are 2 planes, one with a pilot "who" on scoring 0 to 5 got a 3 and the other with a pilot who scored 5, which one would you fly on?

Stevie, your stepfather (and unless you know something we don't, he is) after he was appointed city assessor he took the assessors test and flunked it (once and I think twice) by the way Charlie Griffin was on the council and voted for your stepdad; so listening to your question, if we have a city clerk who can't fly a plane "or" a city assessor who can't add guess which one scares me to death? That's a no-brainer "Stevie".

The next to last thing I want to address is the last council meeting when we had a minister and some of his flock came in at 4 p.m. to tie up seats.

Charlie had the minister open the meeting with a prayer (let's wrap ourselves in religion that should help us), then we had the kids lead with the pledge. Some years back a thinker thought using kids to lead in the pledge would make them look better then they are.

What's next Charlie?...a bath tub of water so you can baptize people, or maybe you can get the Pope to move to Westland. Shame on you.

On the track your on Charlie I won't call you Mr. President but rather Kisaer Charlie since that's how you and you other 3 cronies seem to see yourselves.

For that reason Kisaer Charlie I will wear colors that (if you know your history) will make you feel warm and at home!

At least there is one good service you do at each council meeting, and that's when after the kids lead the pledge you and Dave Cox walk up, smile and shake their hands. If everyone understands that when kids are going to or coming from school and someone comes up to you, smiles, and trys to shake your hand, run, don't walk, and get away from them!

James R. David

Time to create Westland ethics board

Dear Editor,

Mr. Griffin very simply stated, with your schoolboy theatrical outbursts, you have shown that you have lost control of the council meetings and should resign while you still have a shred of dignity left as you have certainly lost the respect and trust of the community.

I too was violated by Mr. Madden. At no time have I ever given him my personal, private e-mail address. However, he sent erroneous messages to me twice. As an attorney he knows better than to impersonate someone else. Mr. Madden took the time to setup a phony account using someone else's name and proceeded to send E-mail under the guise of being Mrs. Gracin. When someone goes to those lengths it is definitely premeditated and should not be excused by the Mayor since as the personal director (of the same department that lost Ms. Gibbons evaluations) he is and should be held accountable for his actions.

Given the recent inappropriate actions of various city directors, council members and the Mayor's inability to apply fair and just disciplinary actions to ALL city employees, it is now time to establish an Ethics Board. Mr. LeBlanc and Mr. Anderson have suggested this for a number of years. I suggest that Ms. Cicirelli preside over this board and she alone should choose the other members. As an attorney and council member she is able to cover both the legal and city aspects needed to be objective and to establish a fair and reasonable, acceptable Code of Ethics. This board should consist of no other council member to avoid any issues of conflict or political motivations. Nor should the Mayor, Mr. Plakas, or Justine Barnes be involved on any level also due to a conflict of interest.

Mr. Griffin. In the last two weeks there have been published statements by you regarding verbal attacks of families. Had you allowed me to continue with my statement at the council meeting, you would have heard that what I had to say was not an attack of anyone's family or personal life. Indeed the facts were relevant to rumors of ongoing nepotism and cronyism. I had tried to word the facts as delicately as possible as I to believe in discretion and that some things should remain private, not openly and blatantly publicly flaunted. Something that is apparently condoned by various members of our current administration.

Give me credit! for 'Fab Fair'

Letter to the Editor:

I've written many articles since January and I would like to set the record straight that I am the one who first named, "The Fab Four."

I never dreamed the phrase would catch on, as it was only a name of sarcasm that just popped into my head, a term borrowed from "The Beatles." Only THESE four are not so fabulous or "fab."

I also named, "The Fab Fritz Lady, Mary Poppins (Sharon Scott,) Mad Madden. The Griff, The Griffin, the creature of mythology which someone told me ate souls, and all the rest, here on Gilligan's Isle.

So, whenever you hear about "The Fab Four," remember where it all started. Give me some credit. That's all I want.

Canton nursing student is a hospital volunteer

By AL POST

A dedicated Canton mother, who has worked as a volunteer at Oakwood Healthcare Center Canton Emergency Room, has signed on a nursing school student at Washtenaw Community College in the Ann Arbor area.

Monica Wright said she has felt strongly about wanting to help people since she was helped in the OB unit while delivering her children.

Based on those positive experiences, Wright said, "I decided I would really like to work for Oakwood. The nurses and doctors are helpful and friendly and I guess I just wanted to be a part of that!"

It was at that time, she said, that "I decided that I wanted to go back to school to become a nurse. I needed some sort of nursing experience - thus I started volunteering at Oakwood."

Wright helps keep strong communications going with hospital patients and their families during emergency room visits.

"I come in and help in any way I can," she said, "if any type of filing or light paper work is needed, I take care of it."

Her emergency room efforts include keeping information going to and from patients and family members, as well as helping with some short baby-sitting needs there.

"It feels really good to be able to help people," she said, "I guess that is why I'm really looking forward to the day when I become a nurse and will hopefully be able to get a job at Oakwood, so I can give back some of the help that was given to me."

National Volunteer Week begins Sunday. To get more information about serving as a volunteer call the Oakwood Healthcare Center at 734-454-8001.

FREE THROAT CANCER SCREENINGS and smoke cessation counseling from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. April 15 at the Cancer Center in Ann Arbor. Symptoms of throat cancer are a sore throat, difficulty swallowing or hoarseness that won't go away. To schedule an appointment call 1-800-865-1125.

are slated at 7 p.m. the third Wednesday of each month at the Oak Park Community Center, 14300 Oak Park Boulevard in Oak Park. Issues discussed include divorce, child custody, visitation denial etc. Cost for meeting is a $5 donation at the door. For more information call 248-354-3080.

Spirituality and Dementia workshop slated on May 5...

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

A Spirituality and Dementia workshop that will be directed to clergy and pastoral care workers will be held May 5 at Kresge Hall on Madonna University's Livonia campus.

The fee is $45 per person and will include refreshments. The workshop will begin at 9 a.m. and continue through 12:30 p.m.

The workshop will explore issues for those who provide spiritual care to older adults with dementia in a variety of settings - the home, in hospitals, in long-term care facilities and in hospice centers.

A panel of professionals from different settings will discuss approaches to spiritual assessment with people who have dementia.

Participants will also explore their own spiritual journeys and how that impacts their work in this area.

A second workshop is slated for June 23 for those individuals who work with dementia families. The workshop to be known as Helping Families Accept Help will explore a wide range of family issues including families who are independent, in denial, in conflict, and those who resist using services of any kind.

To register for either workshop call 734-432-5530.

Pastor Jimmy Lawson of the Community Free Will Baptist Church of Westland reveals that a "Homecoming" service will be held at the church at 11 a.m. April 9.

The day's theme will be kicked off at the Sunday School at 10 a.m. with classes for all ages.

Following the 11 a.m. service, a dinner will be served in the church gymnasium. Following the meal a time of fellowship and song will take place in the church sanctuary.

The church is located at 33031 Cherry Hill Road (west of Venoy) in Westland.

Lawson also reveals that a "revival" series will be held at the church at 7 p.m. April 26-28 with the Rev. Paul Ange of North Carolina presiding.

LOCAL CAR DEALER TO SELL CAR FOR $39.99 DOLLARS

Saline, MI. - One of Michigan's largest Ford Dealers has agreed to sell a used car for $39.00 at a special used vehicle sales event this Saturday, April 8, 2000 at Briarwood Ford. Owner, Eddie Hall, says this sale is absolutely necessary due to the fact that during recent years new vehicle leasing has exploded. This has resulted in an over abundance of nice, low mileage lease returns and trade-ins acquired nationwide. This is an enormous sales event. "Record sales have left us with a great selection of beautiful used vehicles", Hall further states that "we must reduce our inventory to a more tolerable amount. We want to offer these vehicles to our local community so they can experience for themselves our tremendous price reductions". In other words, now is the right time to buy a used vehicle at the absolute lowest price, including a car for as low as $39 dollars.

Access to all specially priced cars will be available to the general public at 7070 East Michigan Avenue, Saline, MI 48176, beginning at 10:00 a.m. Hall recommends "be there early because the last time a New Mexico dealer held a similar sale they had over 200 people respond by 9:00 a.m. in anticipation of driving home a vehicle for only $39 dollars."

Here is how the sale will work: All vehicles will be inspected at 9:00 a.m. so that the general public can unspook them.

Every used vehicle will be clearly marked with the normal retail selling price. Also, all used vehicles in Briarwood's huge inventory will be clearly marked with drastically reduced prices for this special event. One vehicle will be offered for the unbelievable price of just $39 dollars. In anticipation of a large demand for the $39 dollar vehicle and to insure fairness to all of our customers, a drawing will be held at 4:00 p.m. to determine the recipient of the $39 dollar vehicle. Briarwood Ford will offer these prices until 4:00 p.m. at that time, the sale will be completed and the store will return to normal business procedures.

Over the past 13 years, Briarwood Ford has take pride in supporting the local community. This is an opportunity for Briarwood to give back to the community. Hall further states "this is a prime opportunity for everyone seeking a quality used car, truck, van or sport utility to obtain the best deals in the State of Michigan". All in all, it is a win-win situation for the customer, community, and dealer. Any and all questions are welcomed. Please call (734) 665-9414, Briarwood Ford, 7070 E. Michigan Ave., corner of State and Michigan, Saline, MI 48176.

Milne, Wishart planning to wed

Evonne Milne and Brent Wishart, both of Romulus, plan to marry on Aug. 26 at St. Paul's United Church of Christ.

The bride elect is the daughter of Gregory and Donna Milne of Romulus and a graduate of Romulus High School in 1994.

She earned a Bachelor of Science in computer information systems from Ferris State University in Big Rapids, MI. in 1998.

She now is employed as an application developer for Cerner Corp.

The groom to be is the son of Everett and Donna Wishart of Russell in Manitoba, Canada.

He is a 1995 graduate of Major Pratt High School in Russell and is now earning his Bachelor of Science degree from Ferris State. He expects to graduate this May.

After the wedding the couple plan to cruise the Caribbean on their honeymoon.

2 win scholarships

Two area students attending Northwood University in Midland were named scholarship winners at the school's Stafford Memorial Dinner recently.

Meggan Molloy, daughter of John and Patty Malloy, won the William D. Stafford Memorial Scholarship, based on overall grade point average, hospitality, industry employment experience, career aspirations and leadership development.

Kimberly Malloy, daughter of Fred Malloy of Dearborn and Judy Malloy of Westland, won the Majorie Cook-Taylor Endowed Scholarship.

This scholarship assists female students desiring further training as economic-business management professionals.

Inkster boy, 9, cited for aiding 'slave buy-outs'

Nine-year-old Preston Wiley of Inkster is one of 2,000 young persons from around the world to be named a Millennium Dreamer for his outstanding contribution to the community.

Wiley has received his Millennium Dreamers award for his work in raising funds to free enslaved residents in the Sudan.

He is being saluted as a positive role model, not only in his community but to young people around the world.

He was nominated by a family friend, Kevin Mbadiwe.

The nominator said "Young Preston Wiley Jr. is a young person with a good heart and generous instincts, who is making a difference in his community and beyond."

Mbadiwe stated Preston on his own asked questions and started a donation-gift project to raise money and awareness of the 20th Century Slavery currently going on in the African nation of the Sudan.

"Preston is an inspiration to people of all ages," said James Collins, McDonald's Detroit District Manager. "He has truly made a positive and significant impact on our community. I commend McDonald's and Disney for conducting the Millennium Dreamers program. Wiley and 2000 other dreamers along with their parents will be involved in a special recognition program at the Disney World Resort in Florida on May 8-10.

Van Buren will miss Foster, Wayne hoops will miss Henry

The changing of the guard in Western Wayne continues in earnest. More and more good people are opting for retirement rather than continuing their role in public service. Just in the last month, Van Buren Schools Superintendent James Richendollar and Romulus Schools Superintendent William Bedell announced their retirement. So did Wayne-Westland Board of Education President Robin Moore and Westland Senior Coordinator Sylvia Wiacek-Kozorosky.

And the list continues on. The latest name, and certainly one of the most competent public servants on the list, is Van Buren Township Supervisor Helen Foster. Ms. Foster announced last week that she will not seek another term.

That's too bad because during her tenure as top dog at Van Buren she has skillfully orchestrated the township through a myriad of projects during a time when the area was experiencing explosive growth. And she did it with a Board and staff that left their boxing gloves at home.

That will be her legacy. In contrast to neighboring Belleville, where the gloves were on at every meeting, and recalls and lawsuits and vetoes the norm, Van Buren, through the leadership of Ms. Foster, quietly and skillfully ran the township with a few complaints.

Her staff, from the police department to ordinance enforcers, always seem to do their homework, and are well respected in municipal circles.

Van Buren will miss Supervisor Foster. We wish her well as she pursues other ventures.

MCN's All-Area team back in the 1970's, has worked right alongside head coach Tom Izzo in building the phenomenal team that was crowned NCAA champs.

He most notably has been recognized as an outstanding recruiter, bringing much of the talent that formed the nucleus of this year's Spartan team. Congratulations Mike, and also to the NCAA champions, the Michigan State University Spartans.

Another team that nearly went the distance was Iowa State. Their leader on the court was former Inkster schoolboy Marcus Fizer. In fact, Fizer was named runner-up to Kenyon Martin as the top player in the nation.

Unfortunately for Inkster High, Fizer moved to Mississippi early in his basketball career, where he played basketball and was eventually recruited by Iowa State. Now he is an all-American with the opportunity to be one of the top three draft picks.

Inkster never had an opportunity to see Fizer play, but Wayne Memorial has grown accustomed to the winning strategies concocted by head coach Chuck Henry. Unfortunately for Wayne, their coach for 17 seasons has decided to resign from Wayne to coach his kids at Canton Agape Christian Academy.

Henry amassed an unbeatable record at Wayne, largely with lesser talent and smaller players than other teams they played. His teams won 11 conference titles, seven district titles, three regional crowns and appeared in two state semifinal games.

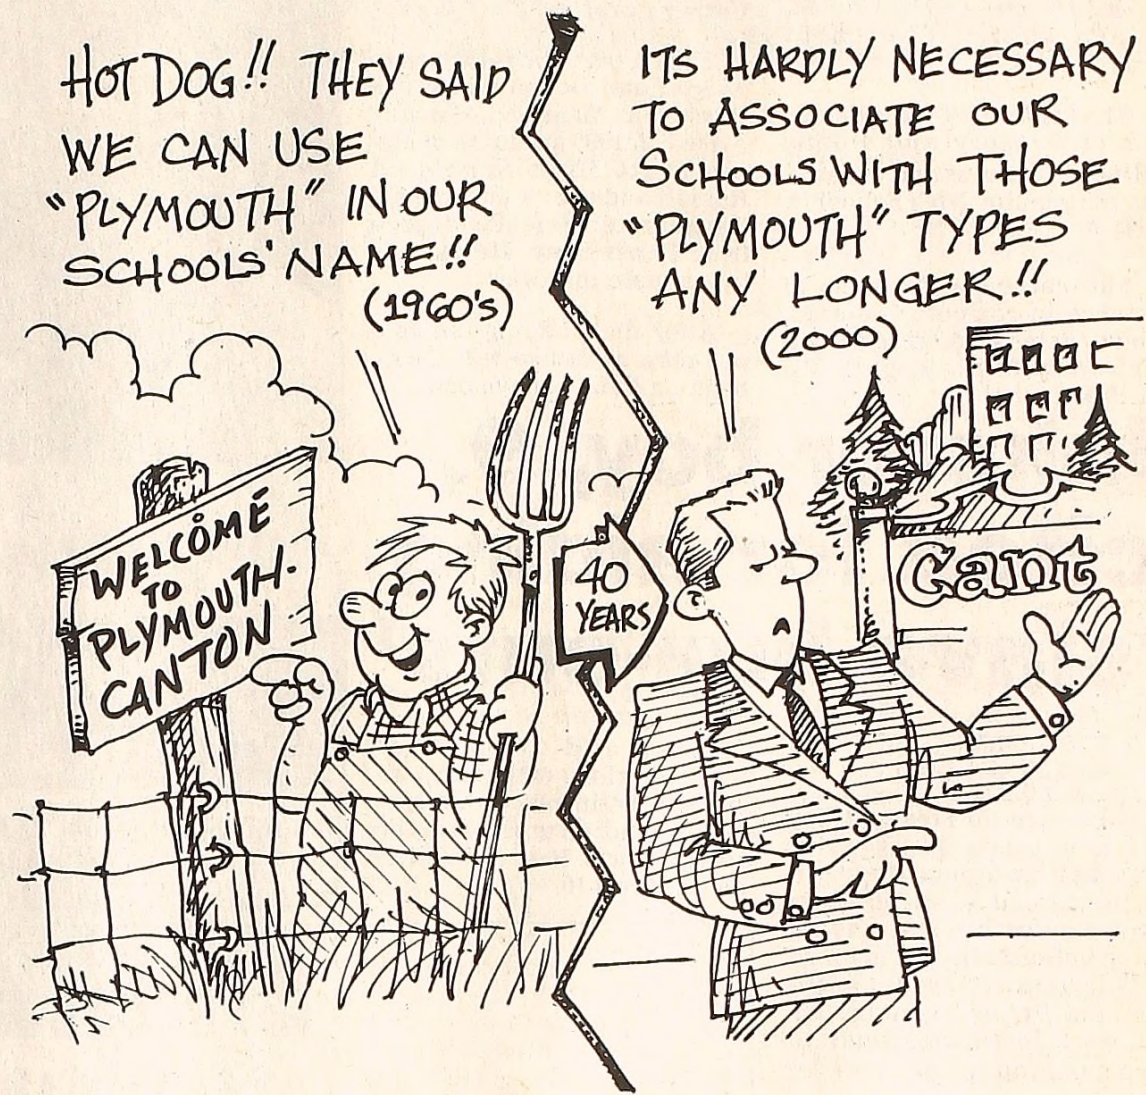

Overall, Wayne posted a 289-98 record during the Henry years. Those are incredible accomplishments that will probably never be matched by another Wayne coach.

Canton Agape doesn't know how lucky they are. To steal a coach and person of this caliber is a major coup. Likewise, Wayne Memorial will sorely miss Henry's keen basketball mind.

Late April Fool questions !!!

We all know that government can sometimes be intrusive in our lives.

Government can tell us that we need to wear our helmets while motorcycling in Michigan.

Government can tell us how early we can put out our trash each week and when the empty containers must be placed back of the house again.

Government can tell us when the snow must be removed from our sidewalks.

But did you know that government cannot prohibit us from selling our babies.

That's priorities not an April Fool's joke.

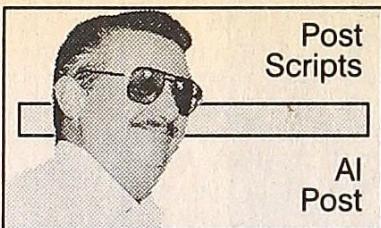

We also know that government is vitally interested in our health...particularly when we are senior citizens.

We have been warned there are only two sure things in life: death and taxes.

It is probably listed that way because taxes sadly go on even after we are dead.

If you don't believe me...sign on as an executor of someone's estate.

Every four years national politicians stress the love and concern they have for you. In fact if you live to be 100 they will ask the governor and president to send you greetings.

Post Scripts

Luckily the print on the president's letter is larger than the warning labels on over the counter medicine containers.

Ralph Nader wants to know do medical warning messages on labels need to be shortened or the print enlarged.

One astronaut said the reason the Hubble Telescope failed initially was he tried to aid his grandmother and used it to read the warning label on her heart medication and the telescope blew up.

We have found a much easier system, we take our "over the counter medication" to the little green man behind the pharmacist's window at the drug store and he reads it for us.

I leave the question of the April Fool issue up to you in this incidence.

It also was interesting to note that Minnesota Gov. Jesse "The Body" Ventura, when questioned on issues surrounding prayer in school, graduations and in Congressional chambers, said "I feel we must stand by the separation of church and state on this issue."

Obviously Ventura did not excel in American History 101. The issue of separation of church and state is not printed in the U.S. Constitution, Bill of Rights or even the Declaration of Independence.

It was taken from a private letter from Thomas Jefferson and used by U.S. Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black to confuse numerous issues in the mid to late 1940s.

Not only hasn't Ventura read U.S. history books, reportedly the only Bible he has ever read is the Vince McMahon version, while he was sitting in the restroom of the WWF.

Ventura loves to chide some Christians on their falseness.

Maybe he's right...many WWF outings draw more families than local churches.

If that's true maybe during this Lenten season we should worship St. Jesse.

I'm sorry....it's just another April Fool.

But before I leave with my wrestling tights in hand Jesse - I was wondering "What did you give up for Lent?"

Leverage Wal-Mart against Target

For years Wal-Mart has been knocking on Canton's door, but could never get in. Too tacky I was told.

This ticked me off because I always imagined that the only way to undo Ford Road's sprawl would be to use Wal-Mart as a hammer to force Target to remodel.

I figured that if township planners offered Wal-Mart enough financial incentives, it could set up on Michigan Avenue or somewhere else on the township's outskirts and undersell Target.

By financial incentives, I'm talking about giving Wal-Mart free land, free store security, exempting them from taxes, and picking up their garbage. Anything in return for the ability to undercut Target. (Considering the township's other subsidies and investments, such as the Canton Softball Center, my incentive scheme is by no means a departure.)

Of course, after the incentives were known, the township would back out if Target would begin the transformation of Ford Road from the worst sprawl east of Sterling Heights to the core of a handsome commercial boulevard.

Target would do its part by remodeling its facade and parking lot to something like the original plan for the site. Believe it or not, planners once envisioned the beginnings of a traditional downtown where Target now sprawls. Walkable streets, human scale setbacks, a pond, not a sea, of asphalt.

Something to build a friendly thriving community like Plymouth or Northville cities with their low crime rates (Plymouth's crime rate is almost half Canton's; Northville's is about a quarter of it) and high on charm.

A place you could stroll and enjoy with your family or take your out-of-town friends.

A place where teens could hang out instead of driving off to Ann Arbor or Royal Oak.

To get it, of course, Target would have to understand that our children deserve to grow up without having to look at something much more attractive than the discounter's fire doors on the township's main drag.

Certainly the company can understand that the fire doors and the stark wall send a grim message to children: Flowers, birds, outdoor cafes are for other people. You get black asphalt and blank walls. By the way, we love you.

Of course, beautifying Target would only be the start of a long slow journey away from sprawl. The township would have to follow Birmingham's lead and bring in a town planner who specializes in growing a healthy community on sprawl-infected soil. Ordinances would have to be changed, road plans abandoned. For example, the millions committed to widening and commercializing Beck Road into potentially the next Ford Road could seed a handsome boulevard on Ford instead. The pedestrian-friendly boulevard would complement the redesigned streetscape, store fronts, and landscaped parking lots.

So with Wal-Mart knocking on the door, it's time to talk turkey with Target. Once Target commits to beautifying the city and helping to build a healthy community, the township board can enact a building moratorium while a town planner with experience in eradicating sprawl works with citizens and planners to create a livable town.

Baby throwaway proposal could lead to worse

A state senator in Michigan has proposed a law that would make it legal for mothers to abandon newborn babies.

A Detroit News article in the March 26 home edition by reporter Louise Knott disclosed that State Senator Shirley Johnson, a Republican from Royal Oak, has introduced a controversial bill in the state legislature that would protect mothers from criminal charges for dropping off their babies at police and fire stations and hospitals.

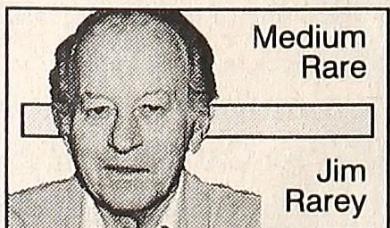

An 18-year-old high school senior in the Detroit area is currently facing manslaughter charges for leaving a premature newborn to die in her bedroom. She reportedly gave birth in the shower in her parents' home (who did not know she was pregnant), cleaned the baby off and tied the umbilical cord with a piece of thread.

She then wrapped the infant in a blanket and later went off to school leaving the baby on her bed. The article reported that police and the parents found the dead infant later in the day.

A spokesperson for a statewide contraception and abortion clinic was quoted as saying, "This law won't mean one bit of difference to any teen-age girl faced with this situation. That's not what's going through her head. She's wondering, "How am I going to face my parents?"

Senator Johnson, according to the article, acknowledged that her bill would not help in situations where avoiding parental disapproval was the motivating factor in the abandonment of newborns.

Medium Rare

She was quoted, "You have to take it one step at a time, we are in a crisis."

The next step is underway, according to Johnson. A fellow legislator is working on a bill that would provide a "public awareness" program aimed at reaching pregnant teenagers and give resources (and authority?) to high school guidance counselors.

This all reeks of the refusal by liberals to demand that people accept personal responsibility for their actions.

Their answer to severe social problems is to eliminate the consequences of immoral or irresponsible actions and hide those actions from parents by making the schools party to deception.

Ironically many, who profess such concern for the newborn that they are willing to give a pass to potential killers, have no problem with the gruesome killing of "fetuses" that are ten seconds and six inches from becoming newborn babies.

When these steps don't work, what is next? Will they make it illegal for parents to disapprove of out-of-wedlock pregnancies?

FBI ought to look into Westland instead of Warren

Letter to the Editor:
Why does the Federal Bureau of Investigation look at the City of Warren, Michigan when there is so much more intrigue in the City of Westland? A list of the many queries that could and should be of Interest to the F.B.I. :

1. Why were letters of endorsement for Charles Griffin, David Cox, and David James running for the Westland City Council [allegedly] put on City of Westland stationery signed by Mayor Thomas, retired City Clerk Diane Fritz, and Senior Friendship Center Director Sylvia Wiacek and mailed from city hall sent to all absentee voters plus who knows how many others last summer of 1999? Was this legal or even ethical?

2. Did the firing of the then City Clerk Patricia Gibbons by the newly elected council, embers Griffin, Cox, and James after their swearings in have anything to do with trying make them aware that what they were doing was wrong?

3. Then comes the mysterious change of the vote counts when it came to the absentee ballots. There were rumors about the handling of them which may have shifted the entire election for city council. Several precinct workers said that there were hardly any votes recorded where they worked and they were shocked when the Fabulous Three were victorious.

Strange but true - while recalls are effective - residents of Westland should reinforce their efforts by writing to their Congresspersons and U.S. Senators requesting an investigation.

Recall's agenda is to hold council members, mayor accountable

Letter to the Editor:
I challenge the person who wrote the Sound Off in Sunday's edition to come forward and be courageous enough to claim that little piece of nonsense about Roger Caldwell and the recall people's agenda!

I always sign my name to everything I write, that is because I believe in what I am fighting for. I believe that our politicians need to be held accountable to the people they purport to represent.

As long as we think they are doing fine, we're positive, but when we want answers, and ethics, we're negative.

One thing the mystery writer did have right is we do have an agenda. That agenda is to hold each councilman accountable for his/her actions, regardless of whether we at one time supported them or not, that includes our mayor. I would also address the mystery writer as to his/her connection to these four and the mayor. Just what is his/her agenda? Every cause has an agenda. To every action there is an end. We want the end to be the recall of four people whom we allege violated the very premise of representation, and that was when they followed their own agenda instead of that of the people of this city.

As you can see, I will sign my name, as have all those involved in this recall, because we have the courage it takes to face the type of intimidation and harassment we have received because we chose to do what is right.

Let's see if you can do the same.

Citizens' hard work convinced board to reject deepwell

To the Editor:

Since 1993 the citizens of Romulus have challenged the proposal by Environmental Disposal Systems (EDS) to operate Michigan's first commercial hazardous waste disposal well facility in their community. Many individuals, organizations, businesses and communities in the Downriver region have joined in the effort to stop the EDS well. I have had the personal privilege to work together with them on this most important issue.

On Tuesday night, the tireless efforts and continued sacrifices of those opposing the well were rewarded as the Site Review Board voted to recommend to the director of the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) that the EDS permit be denied. This was without question an enormous victory for everyone. Congratulations to all of you!

I want to take this opportunity to extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to each and every individual who has participated in any way in this effort, including those who attended the public hearings, signed petitions, wrote letters or displayed anti-well signs in their yards. I would especially like to commend RECAP, the city of Romulus and the city of Taylor, Cameron Priebe and Ed Boike (our local appointees to the Site Review Board), as well as the Downriver Association of Realtors for the invaluable and extensive contributions they have made to this effort.

Of course, this fight is not over. With the Site Review Board process completed, DEQ Director Russ Harding must now make the final permit decision. This is a very critical phase in the permit process. I would, therefore, encourage everyone to step up their level of commitment to the anti-well effort and help secure another victory for the Downriver region.

Sincerely,
Raymond E. Basham
State Representative

Gas tax holiday bad election year policy

The political winds are blowing in Washington, bringing several proposals to lessen the impact of the nation's fuel shortage on consumers. Those proposals don't bode well for the motoring public in states around the country, including Michigan.

The policy flavor-of-the-month is one that would put the 4.3-cent federal excise tax on motor fuel on a holiday. That proposal is rapidly moving from being a mere possibility to being a legislative probability as the election-year gear grind into motion, starting with aggressive maneuvering by Senator Trent Lott (R-Mississippi). On Sunday, March 26, he announced on NBC's Meet the Press that he would be advocating legislative action on suspending the 4.3-cent tax until January 1, 2001. He is also calling for a suspension of the entire 18.4-cent federal tax on motor fuel should the national average at the pump hit two dollars.

What Washington is failing to talk about is how little savings to consumers will actually be in the case of the 4.3-cent excise tax, approximately $26 per year for a person who drives an average of 12,000 miles in a car getting 20-miles-per-gallon. They have also failed to tell the motoring public the true price they'll pay in the end: Michigan stands to lose $161 million this fiscal year if the 4.3-cent excise tax is cut, and over $700 million over the next two fiscal years if the entire federal tax is suspended. That equates to 15 to 30 percent of Michigan's annual transportation budget.

In recent years Michigan has enjoyed much-needed improvements in the infrastructure. Michigan's road funding mechanism is tied strongly to the federal transportation funding system, otherwise known as TEA-21, TEA-21 was overwhelmingly approved in 1998 by elected officials in Washington and it directly linked annual federal highway funding to the states to incoming Highway Trust Fund revenue, part of which are derived from motor fuel tax revenues. TEA-21 did what was a long time coming and a nod to the macroeconomic importance of infrastructure: it specifically dedicated money for road building and maintenance.

The statistics are there; according to the US Dept. of Transportation 12,000 deaths occur annually on our nation's roads that are directly attributable to poor road conditions. Yet, when push comes to shove in an election year, the nation's funding mechanism for decreasing that statistic has become the figurative policy whipping boy. Senator Lott claims that moneys lost from federal taxes on fuel can be replaced with a purported federal fund surplus, but the jury is still out in Washington as to whether or not a surplus even exists. Recent meetings in Washington have also aired the reality that a 4.3-cent decrease at the federal level may not even be passed along to consumers.

The point must be made that putting user fees for our nation's roads on a holiday sets a dangerous precedent that in an election year anything goes and policy makers can randomly slash dedicated funds. With the results from this year's election months away, and majority not a decided factor for either chamber of the legislature, wouldn't it be making a grand assumption that the those taxes would easily be reinstated in a timely manner? Maybe Washington should set aside superficial election year politicking and come together in a fiscally responsible statement to OPEC: our tax money defends your soil, and Uncle Sam won't be footing this bill for you. It is time to demand that OPEC bring the price of oil back down to a reasonable level.

Sincerely,
Bob Patzer

Implants: Hope for Loose Dentures

Question: My denture is quite loose and moves around when I talk and chew. I have had new ones made, but they still are not very good. Is there anything I can have done to improve them?

Answer: This is a common problem among patients who wear complete dentures. Lower dentures especially have the problem of moving around and slipping when a patient talks or chews food. This is usually due to the fact that the bone ridge on the lower jaw will often resorb over time and become lower and lower. It can get to the point where there is little or no bone to support and retain the lower denture.

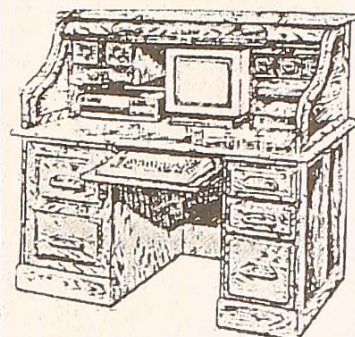

There is a good solution. More and more, dentists are using implants to support and hold in dentures. In this column, I outline some of the basics of how implants work--titanium inserts are surgically placed in the bone, which join with the bone to serve as "roots." In the case of a denture, the dentist may place two, three, or more implants and construct a denture which tightly fits on these anchors. The patient now has a set of teeth which don't move or fall out.

If you are in need of a better solution for your mouth, call Newburgh Heights Dental today.

ETD and MCN join forces to introduce employers and employees

It's a marriage made in Heaven. For years, Employment & Training Designs Inc. has committed to making ETD a one-stop resource for job seekers. And this year, Michigan Community Newspapers declared the year 2000 as the "Year of the Help Wanted." It was only natural that the two would join forces to introduce western Wayne County job seekers to local employers.

This is the fourth job fair ETD has hosted, explains Tobi Shingleton, marketing director, ETD and its educational offshoot, Professor PC. The first fair, three years ago, saw some 350 visitors. But last year, 650 job seekers came to the fair.

MCN chose a partnership with ETD not only because the two companies share a commitment to bringing workers to the front door of quality companies. There was another reason: the mix of companies who'll be represented. Much like the newspaper's own classifieds section, ETD's business contacts offer a wide variety of employment opportunities--skilled and unskilled, from custodial jobs to engineering careers.

"We're happy to be involved in this job fair," said MCN publisher Mike Wilcox. "We just can't believe how this job fair has grown in only three years. Hopefully, with our involvement, it will continue to grow even more."

Even Shingleton is surprised at the fair's growth. And, as she explains, the boom of the job fair works out favorably for everyone, employer and employee alike. "If you're looking for a job, there's no reason you shouldn't walk out of here Wednesday without one," she explains.

Working the job fair

Tips that'll get you noticed

By CAROL MARSHALL
MCN Staff Writer

A job fair can be a great way to check out prospective employers, network and—let's face it—can be a fun way to spend an afternoon. But the real point to going is to land an interview. Following a few simple rules and paying attention to little details can make you stand out from the crowd, and come away with more than a bag full of flyers; you could leave the job fair with a job.

{b}Your appearance. {s}I visited the ETD/Michigan Works! job fair last spring and was shocked to see how many people were dressed too casually.

It's surprising how many people show up at a job fair wearing T-shirts and sneakers. Consider this: Employers at the job fair will be very busy. You only have about a minute to make an impression, and if you dress too casually, you'll make the wrong one.

If you really want to get noticed, dress as you would for the interview. Women, wear a professional suit, or neutral slacks or a skirt, and a blouse and jacket. You don't have to wear uncomfortable high heels; you want to be comfortable. But do wear flat dress shoes that complement your outfit. Leave the big jewelry at home, and wear conservative small ear rings, and a watch. Be cautious about your perfume, as well. If you must wear a fragrance (personally, I do not wear perfume to important meetings and interviews) be sure it is applied sparingly.

Men, wear a suit or dress trousers, and a shirt and tie, just like you would to an interview. Make sure to shave and leave ear rings at home. Be yourself, but be your very best, polished self.

Men and women should bring their brief cases, or attaches. If you do not have one, and cannot borrow one, at least bring a very nice folder to carry your resumes and business cards.

{b}Your resume. {s}In a word: bring it. Even though most of the companies will have on-the-spot applications, you'll shine if you show that you took the time and extra effort to bring your resume.

You should also consider going a step further for those companies for whom you'd really like to work, and produce a cover letter, addressed to the Personnel Manager, specific to those company. Take the time to address them properly—if you're serious about landing a job, you can take the time to crack open the yellow pages to find that company's address. If you're unsure of what the company may be looking for, highlight your skills. For many of the companies, you can be vague, and say you are eager to pursue a career in "customer service," or a "people-oriented career," or "technological career."

However, some companies may advertise at the job fair for one type of employee, but they're also looking for others. For example, let's say Pinkerton Security's flyers and banner advertise that they're looking for potential security guards or salespeople. However, if you have a clerical background, and would like to work for that company, write your cover letter accordingly: "I am seeking an administrative support position with your company...." and highlight your experience and skills. Your resume will be passed on to personnel, and you may get the job you're looking for because you took the extra time to hunt it down.

{b}Greeting the new boss. {s}Approach each booth you're interested in as if you know exactly what you can do for that company. Do not, when asked what kind of job you're seeking, say, "I don't know." It's the same as saying, "I'm an idiot." Take some time to hang back, and think about your approach. In fact, you can do a "fly-by," and casually swing by the booth, and eye the flyers which may tell you what kind of jobs that company is looking for. Then, approach the booth with a smile, and a warm "Hello."

Engage the representatives in conversation, and introduce yourself, offering a friendly handshake when you do.

If I were approaching Distinctive Maintenance, for example, and I had noticed during a "fly-by" that the company is looking for housekeepers, I would confidently walk up to the booth, and wait for the representative to finish talking to whomever she may be greeting. I would then look her in the eye, and offer my hand, and say, "Hi, I noticed you're looking for housekeepers. Are you interested in part-time or full-time?" I would follow up with information about myself, and say, "I did some housekeeping in college, and loved the flexibility. Right now I'm looking for some part-time work."

I would offer my resume, and ask for a phone call to set up an interview. I would also ask for a business card from the representative. On leaving, I would say, "It was so nice talking to you. I look forward to seeing you again," and thank her for her time.

Forget the trinkets, you want a job. Many of the booths at the job fair will be stocked with pens, magnets, and other assorted "goodies." You may even encounter companies who go all out, and give away travel mugs. You don't need them. You need a job. Instead of "shopping" the job fair, be professional. Exchange business cards and resumes. If a "goody" is just too irresistible to pass up, comment on it after you talk with the representative: "Oh, this pen/refrigerator magnet/cup is interesting. I could really use this," and discreetly put ONE (not a handful) in your briefcase (not a shopping bag).

A little common sense and thought to details will give you the upper hand, and will hopefully have your phone ringing with interview options and job offers. Good luck.

Do you really need a resume? You bet!

Many people think a job application provides an employer with all the same information a resume does, so why bother?

There are few good reasons why: A job application provides the basic facts about you, but it doesn't show your personality, and it's not very interesting. The purpose of a resume is to make an employer interested in learning more about you so that he'll want to interview you.

A resume says: Here is a serious, focused, organized person who's eager to work--a statement a job application simply cannot make.

That one extra piece of paper can be a powerful boost in your job search. A good resume will help you make the best possible impression--no matter what job you're applying for. For tips on great resume writing, visit Michigan Works! at 3693 Metro Place Mall in Wayne, before the job fair. The center has some terrific resources and staff that will help you create the most effective resume.

Here are some quick do's and don'ts:

- DO ask for bond paper, when taking your resume to a copy center.
- DON'T use regular copier paper, and don't use heavy paper or some wild color pattern. Stick to white or off-white.

- DO check for errors before taking your final version to the copy center. Yes employers DO notice typos and other errors. Proofread carefully.

- DO use business-size envelopes, in the same color as your resume paper. Fold your resume neatly in thirds.

- DO use a "cover letter." The Michigan Works! resource center can help you with this, as well. This type of letter introduces you to the employer, and gets them to read your resume.

- DON'T put the names of your references on your resume. They belong on a separate sheet of paper.

- DON'T put personal information, such as your age, number of children, etc., on your resume.

Interview tips

Remember: One of the best ways to prepare for an interview is to research the company.

Tips:

- Be sincere and direct. In a word, be yourself. You'll feel more comfortable and ensure a good employer/employee match if you are not trying to be something you're not.

- Be attentive and polite. Put your very best foot forward. Offer a warm hand shake and a smile. Remember the interviewer's name, and address him or her as "Mr." or "Ms." unless invited to use first names.

- Ask relevant questions. Usually, the interviewer will invite you to ask questions toward the end of the interview. You should let the interviewer guide the meeting, and you can jump in after he or she has given you enough information to do so. Do not, however, ask about salary during the first meeting.

- Answer questions concisely. It's okay to pause before answering, rather than talk in circles. Try to imagine what types of questions may be asked of you before you go to the interview, so you may have ready answers available.

- Use specific examples to illustrate points. When asked to demonstrate your effectiveness at previous jobs, don't simply say, for example, "I increased sales at XYZ company," or "I had a lot of responsibility." Instead give more concrete answers, such as, "I landed 13 new accounts at XYZ company, and increased sales with my existing accounts by 14 per cent in the last year." Or be specific about increases in responsibility, promotions, and your duties.

- Keep eye contact. But don't stare.
- Take extra copies of your resume and references. You may be interviewed by a panel, in which case you'll need enough resumes to pass around.
- Take samples of your previous work, if applicable.
- Don't try to control the interview. Let the interviewer lead. Remember, even in this buyer's market economy, you are still trying to sell yourself.
- Don't be too serious. But don't be

Don't be too serious.

But don't be too relaxed, either.

*Just be professional,
warm, and confident.*

too relaxed, either. Just be professional, warm, and confident.

- Don't make negative comments. Especially about your previous employer. It makes you look bad. Behave and speak as if the world is your oyster. And no matter how bad your last employer was, you certainly learned some good lessons. Focus on those, and BE POSITIVE.

- Don't look at your wristwatch. It's rude. You want the employer to know that he or she is your priority. Avoid feeling like you're in a hurry by keeping your calendar clear the day of your interview—leave large blocks of time for the interviews.

- Don't take extensive notes. It's distracting, and makes you appear inexperienced or over-eager.

- Don't be late. Again, this is rude, and sends the message that your prospective employer's time is of no value to you.

Tactics.

- Research the company or organization before the interview. Look them up on the internet. When you are called for the interview, ask if the company has any newsletters, a printed job description, or any marketing brochures that you could review before your interview. Ask if it would be best if the company mails them, or if you could pick them up.

- Link your abilities and skills to as many questions as possible.

- Arrive at least 10-15 minutes early.

- Ask at least two questions at the end of the interview. Some general questions that may be appropriate would be: What would be some of my major challenges in this position? When is this position available? Do you have a specific job description for this position? Are you looking for traditional or innovative solutions to problems?

- Immediately following the interview, note the subjects that were discussed, and write a thank you note to the interviewer.

- Call the employer about the position after one week has elapsed.

- Maintain a daily schedule, especially if you have more than one interview to attend.

Cover Letter Tips

Remember: A cover letter should include items about your past experiences which are not necessarily covered within the resume.

Tips.

- Address the cover letter to a specific person with an exact title.
- Produce the letter on 20 lb. cotton bond, white or off-white paper.
- Keep your letter short and to the point.
- Describe how your skills and abilities will benefit the company.
- Provoke the employer to read your resume.
- Request a job interview.
- Include the current date on the upper portion of the page.
- Don't include reference names or addresses. These belong on a separate piece of paper.
- Don't include personal beliefs, traits or features. It's unprofessional, and besides, the employer is prohibited by law from asking many personal questions, such as those regarding your marital status, whether you have children, your religion, and health background.
- Don't include your age. For the same reason as above.
- Don't talk negatively about previous employers. It will appear as if you have a hard time "playing well with others."

Tactics.

- First paragraph:
State the position in which you are interested and any persons who recommended this position for you. Include your name, address and phone in plain view.
- Second and third paragraphs:
Include past experience related to the position for which you are applying. Convey enthusiasm for the position or profession. Highlight specific job qualifications which are not necessarily listed on your resume.
- Fourth paragraph:
Restate your interest for the position and a few key abilities. Request an interview. Thank the employer for his or her time and effort.
- Closing:
Two of the most common closings are "Best Regards," and "Sincerely."

Cover Letter Refresher Course

Ten tips for crafting eye-catching cover letters

Source: Peter Newfield, Monster.com

Your cover letter presents your intentions, qualifications and availability to a prospective employer in succinct and appealing format. As your first chance to make a great impression, a personalized letter indicates you are serious about your job search. Your resume can give the nitty-gritty of dates, places of employment and education, but your cover letter must entice the reader to consider you amidst hundreds, or even thousands, of candidates for any one job opening.

1. Do you really need a cover letter? You bet! Just as you would never show up unannounced at a prospective employer's door, your resume should never just appear solo on a decision-maker's desk. Your cover letter is your first opportunity to introduce yourself, present your qualifications and show the search committee you are a potential candidate for the advertised position.

2. Personalize it to the company. Anyone can reproduce a "canned" cover letter and hope for the best. Instead, take a few minutes to personalize your letter to show a company that you are serious about working for them.

State the reason for your interest in the company. Show that you have done your homework by mentioning company specifics such as a department, a new project or a recent acquisition. Address the cover letter to a specific individual whenever possible.

3. Why are you sending your resume and cover letter? Cover letters should be clear and to the point. Include the specific job title, two to three reasons why your experience makes a good fit and a brief outline of your career highlights.

4. Highlight your strengths. You may be a great person and never call in sick, but prospective employers really want to know why they should consider you for this position. Brag a little! Give a few facts, list relevant skills and state accomplishments on recent jobs that will be impressive. Examples:

- Increased overseas sales by 93 percent.

- Negotiated new financial leases or loans.

- Implemented new training programs which reduced staff turnover by 15 percent.

5. State your intentions and qualifications right up front. Don't expect a senior personnel manager or recruiter to wade through a mish-mash of information on your cover letter before understanding why you are sending your resume.

6. What makes you different? Emphasize your skills, talents and experiences to show how you would be a valuable addition to the team. If you have relevant volunteer or professional experience, mention it briefly in your cover letter. For example, if you are an accountant who serves as volunteer treasurer for a nonprofit community health organization, include that information. Or if you are an international sales rep who has lived in Europe and Asia and speaks several languages, add that to your letter.

7. No negative information. Never include personality conflicts with previous employers, pending litigation suits or sarcastic remarks in your cover letter. If you are bad-mouthing your present place of employment, interviewers may fear a repeat performance if they hire you.

8. When should you include salary and/or relocation information? The rule of thumb is to always include salary requirements and/or salary history in the cover letter if a prospective employer requests it. For example, you could write: "My salary requirements are $60,000-$75,000 (negotiable)."

Or you might write: "My current salary is $53,000 at XYZ corporation." Eliminating this information from your cover letter may justify your resume getting tossed out. Never include salary and relocation information on your resume - only address this information in your cover letter.

9. Take Action Steps. Take a proactive approach in your cover letter. State the fact that you are available for a personal interview; give your home, work, email and/or cell phone numbers where you can be reached; note that you will follow up by phone (whenever possible) to provide any additional information required.

10. Be direct! A professionally written cover letter and resume can open the doors to your next position on the corporate ladder or to a new career in a different field. A clean, error-free presentation combined with strong phrasing and solid facts, will encourage the reader to review the attached resume and call you in for an interview.

Job Hunting Mistakes

1. Having a bad attitude. Interviewing while still angry at a former employer. Being, acting, or thinking negative. The problem with negative people is that they seldom realize how terribly negative they really are. They may have good business skills, but they stay unemployed a long time and can't figure out why.

2. Thinking "something will come along." Waiting for something to happen. As a rule, good things don't "just happen." Successful people make them happen. Effort usually equals results. As a rule, the harder you work at a job search, the sooner it ends.

3. Thinking someone else will find me a job: a recruiter, a counselor, my neighbor, my employer, my spouse, my pastor—anyone. Even with counseling and support, this is really a "do-it-yourself" project.

4. Thinking they're more marketable than they are. Declining job offers that pay less than the last job or are somehow inferior. It's often best to accept a weaker offer and leverage up from there. I call it "kicking a career field goal."

5. Taking rejection personally. The best way to cope with rejection is to have so many balls in the air that one loss doesn't matter much. Having your entire future riding on one potential of-

*You may feel desperate.
Just don't let them
see you sweat.*

fer is clearly a red flag.

6. Acting desperate. You may feel desperate. Just don't let them see you sweat.

7. Shooting too high (or too low). It's essential to know where you're marketable. You learn that through networking, and by asking others where they think you're competitive. Ask college professors, experts in the field, and especially those in jobs similar to the ones you want.

8. Looking for "a job" rather than for a good fit where you'll be happy. Sometimes it's necessary to take the first job that comes along. Most of the time, it's not. Whenever possible, hold out for the right fit.

9. Launching a job campaign before you know who you are and what you want to do. (The cart before the horse.) This is like building a custom home without a blueprint. Usually, the result is a short-term fix. Then you're back in the job market.

10. Asking for "a job" instead of asking for advice, ideas, and referrals. Business contacts—especially strangers—are generally willing to point you in the right direction, but they dislike being asked directly for a job, because they're uncomfortable turning you down.

11. Not preparing for interviews. Your competitors will be prepared. They will have rehearsed the answers to difficult interview questions—sometimes even on videotape. Why shouldn't you? Also, don't interview halfheartedly. Go for the job offer. You can always turn it down later.

12. Hard-selling. Coming on too strong. Pushing people to give you names. Sometimes called NFL networking. Hard selling creates bad feelings about you and is actually counterproductive.

Signs that a job offer is pretty pathetic

We've all been there: you knock yourself out getting a job—any job, and it turns out to be a little less than what you expected. Here's a little humor to take the edge off your job hunting. How do you tell that a job offer is pathetic? Here's a checklist:

- The human resources manager is laughing as she offers it to you.

- The top 89 candidates all turned it down.

- You have to check with a lawyer to see if it's legal for them to pay you so little.

- The word "loser" is incorporated into the job title.

- If you don't accept it, the position will be declared unfillable.

- Only your goldfish seems to have heard of the company.

- You would have to bring your own chair.

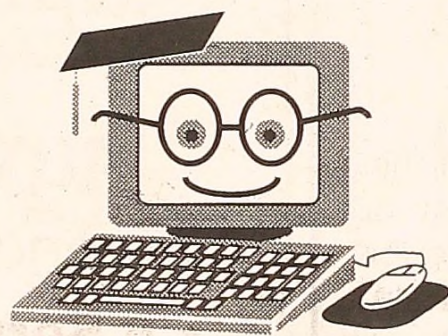

- Fellow co-workers would be instructed to refer to you as "loser."

- Yours is the company car.

- Your job description doesn't rule out any kind of work.

Staying motivated while you look for a job

Motivation Advice

It is often difficult to stay positive during the job search. Potential employers can be unresponsive or even rude; and friends and family often express how unimpressed they are with the state of your world.

So what to do, when you have the job search blues?

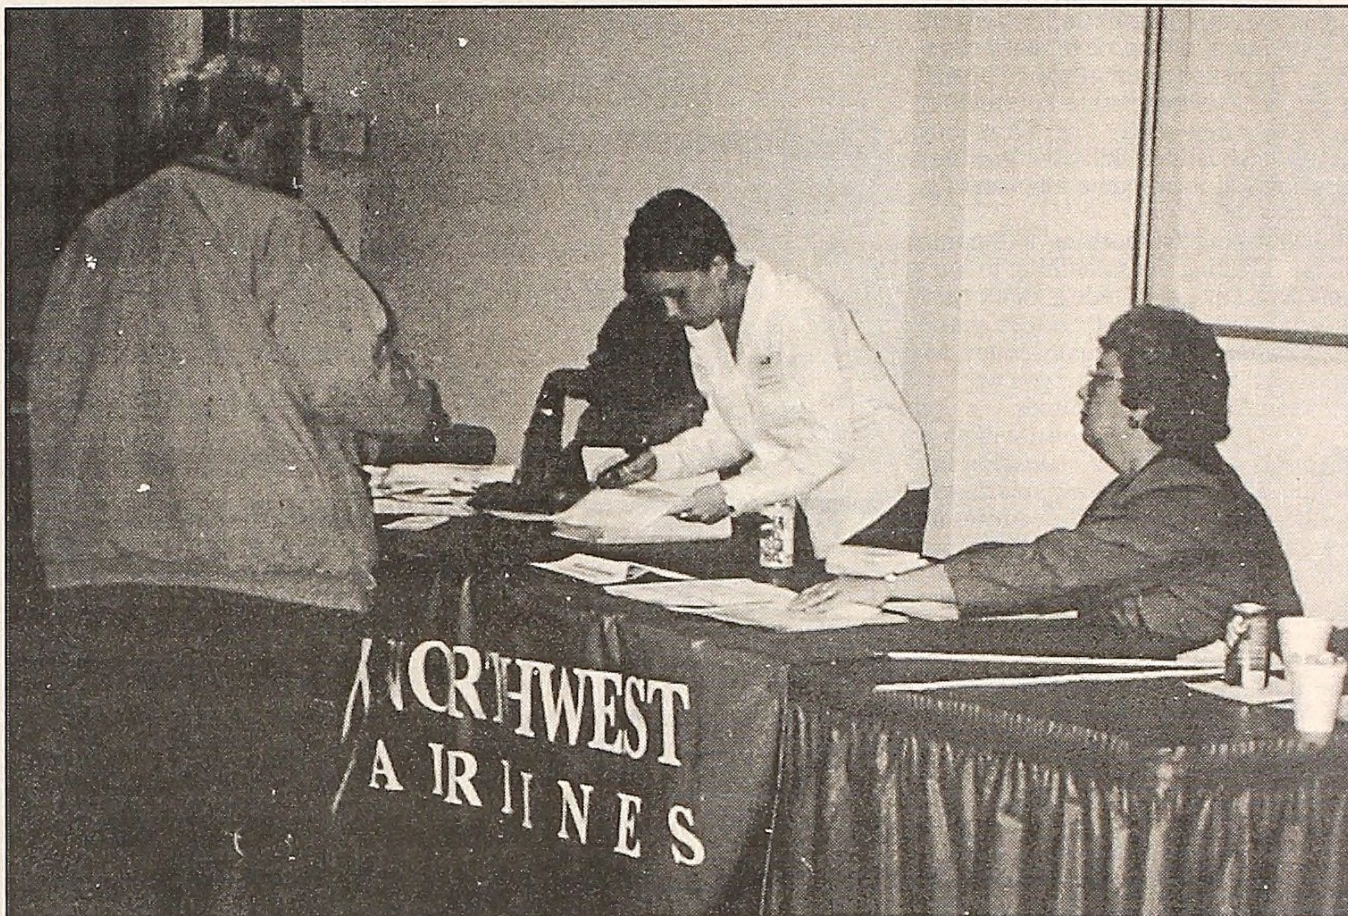

1) The first thing is to remember is that millions of people are looking for a job everyday - it is a normal activity successful people engage in. How else could you get a good job? Aunt Hilda may not understand - but it's still a fact of life.

2) Be ready with responses. Know what your going to say if someone asks an awkward question like where you're working, or what you're doing. That way you avoid blurting out a response that makes you feel embarrassed.

3) Look for a job you want. This is really important. There is nothing more uninspiring than having to take a lot of crap, to get something you don't really want. Focus on the job you'd like to do, and the job search will be a bit more palatable.

It is often hard to stay positive during the job search. But if you remember that there are millions of others in the same boat; have responses ready for those prying questions; and concentrate on looking for a job you really want; staying positive can become a lot easier.

Advantage Staffing

Your thing: Choosing the right career

"We are continually faced with a series of great opportunities brilliantly disguised as insoluble problems." John W. Gardener

To find the ideal career, the most important this is to figure out what you love to do; and then figure out how to get paid for it. So what do you love to do? Not sure? Ask yourself a few questions:

About People: If you could trade places with anyone who would it be? Ok, anyone who has a job? What kind of people do you most respect? Who do you want to be like?

About Learning: If you could learn to do anything, what would it be? why? what part of the new skill interests you? Do you think that you would still be interested 5 years from now?

About Money: How much money do you need to be happy? To be excited? Do you need to support others now, or in the future?

So, now you may have some idea of what kind of people you would like to work with, the skills you would like to use, and the amount of money you would like to make. This is a great starting point, but it is not enough to choose a career. Figuring out how your skills and interests provide you with job potential is a challenge.

But there are ways to open your eyes to these new opportunities:

Brainstorm: You are the single best source of information for this stage of the job search. Mostly, because you care most about the outcome and you know yourself best! So take some time and write down all the different jobs that are related to your areas of interest.

Career Tests: If you're at a loss, take a career or personality survey that will indicate what jobs are best suited to you. Links for Choosing a Career provide links to these tools. This may help you narrow down your choices and introduce you to new possibilities.

Counselors and Mentors: Bounce your career plan off of counselors and/or mentors, or other people who have your best interests at heart. They will help you further determine what types of work you could channel your energy into.

By asking yourself thoughtful questions about the who, what and how much of you career requirements; and brainstorming, taking career tests, and asking mentors and career counselors for advice, determining the right career for you will become much easier.

Wayne's coach Henry resigns

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Wayne Memorial's biggest basketball loss of the decade occurred in the 1999-2000 post season.

Coach Chuck Henry announced this week that he will not be returning to the team next year. He has accepted an offer to coach at Canton Agape Christian Academy in Canton Township.

The announcement by the popular and most successful basketball coach in Wayne Memorial's recent history shocked the school and sports community.

Henry, 50, said he accepted the offer at Agape because it afforded him a unique opportunity to coach his five children who attend the Christian school and also have more quality time with his family.

The 50-year-old coach said that he has mixed emotions about the move.

"If there is a tug on my heart it's due to the many good people that I have met here at Wayne over the years - people like Bill Hawley and Bill Brooks, the teaching and coaching staff and above all the many players who have come this way."

"Win or lose, our fans have been dedicated and they have supported this program to the end."

"Then why am I doing this? It's for my kids. I will have an opportunity over there to be with them and watch them grow and learn and become more a part of their lives than I have been. And how can you beat that?" Henry and his wife, Margie, who teaches English at Agape, have five children: Margie, an 11th grader; Amy, 9th grader, and Dede, a 6th grader. Their two sons, Charles and Donald, are in 8th and 3rd grade at the school. All are actively involved in basketball.

In fact, Henry resigned his coaching job as Wayne Memorial's girls' basketball coach to take the job at Agape to coach his girls.

"I got a call from Keith Armleithner at Agape a couple of weeks ago. He asked me if I wanted to take over the boys' varsity program, too. I told him I would have to think about it. Last week I informed him that I would."

Bill Hawley, Wayne Memorial athletic director, said that he was extremely disappointed over Henry's resignation, but understood his dilemma.

"I had children who also played basketball. In fact, one of them was over at Glenn and played against our teams. I can identify with what coach Henry is going through."

"And, though I am disappointed, I wish him all the luck in the world."

Hawley said that he would be interviewing candidates as soon as the job is posted to find a coach who can carry on the Wayne tradition.

Under coach Henry, the Wayne basketball program has become one of the most respected in the state of Michigan. During his tenure as head coach, Henry posted a 289-98 won-lost record since leaving Dearborn Divine Child in 1983 to coach at Wayne.

Overall, Henry's teams have won 366 games while losing 152. His teams also have won 11 conference championships, seven district titles, three regional crowns and, led by prep All-American Lorenzo Guess, appeared in three state quarterfinals and two state semifinal games.

It has been a remarkable run for a coach who inherited a program that lost more than won.

Along with Guess, Henry also coached such historic players as Pollis Robertson, the first African American to play for and graduate from Wisconsin.

Others who went on to collegiate fame include EMU's Howard Flowers, Saginaw Valley State's Mark Robinson, Kevin Hankerson, and Richard Rashad. Two others - Brian Williams

State champs have 'great expectations'

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Coach Norb Glover could not have asked for or had a better track & field season than he had a year ago.

In 1999, Glover and the Romulus Eagles won their fourth consecutive track & field Mega Conference, Blue Division championship, then they went on to dominate the Class B state finals.

It was an unforgettable year. Today, at 4 p.m., on the home turf, Glover launches his 23rd season as head coach and he has "great expectations" for his Eagles.

But "expectations," stresses Glover are accomplished one step, one victory at a time.

Does his expectations also include a fifth conference title and a repeat at state in 2000?

You can't look past your opponents.
- Coach Norb Glover

"Now wait one second," urges Glover, as he appears to examine the question. "You know better than that. We have a very simple philosophy around here, and that, is we take them one meet at a time."

"You can't look past your opponents, and if you do you may get caught looking as they run pass you."

Rain or shine or both, Romulus will open up the 2000 campaign at home, hosting

Taylor Kennedy.

And Glover and Company are again blessed with exceptional talent to defend their conference title. In the quarter-mile Ashley Terry, who qualified for state in the event, should have no problems picking up where he left off last year.

The Eagles also have Joe Wasson to carry on their winning tradition in the hurdles. A year ago, Romulus' Carleton McCauley swept the hurdles in the conference and went on to win a gold medal in the 100-meter hurdles at state. Wasson's father and uncle, who prepped at River Rouge, are former state champs in the event.

Michael Woods, a sprinter who helped the Eagles' 200-

Robichaud's McCauley begins 30th season

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Francis McCauley will open his third decade as head coach of the Robichaud High School's girls' varsity track team today with a strong sense of optimism and raised expectations.

McCauley offers two good reasons for his renewed optimism.

"We have depth on this team, and we also have been realigned in the Mega's White Division," said McCauley, whose Bulldogs clash with Wayne Memorial today in the Mega Conference White Division's realigned opener.

Robichaud competed in the top bracket of the four-tier Mega Conference, in the Red Division, where teams without the numbers barely survive.

Robichaud made it through the 1999 season, but the new millennium brings with it new hope in the form for several freshmen, like short sprinters Dazania Ball and Cierra Jones who are coming off of a junior varsity that won their championship.

- Francis McCauley

"This team's lineup is sprinkled with freshmen, sophomores and a couple of juniors and seniors who provide the depth we didn't have a year ago."

"We have raised our expectations with this group," Mc-Cauley added.

Robichaud has a blue chip shot putter returning in Tracey Scott, who missed qualifying for the state finals by only a couple of inches. Off of Scott's performance a year ago, she should be the one to beat in the White Division this year.

Sheena Bullock, also a senior, is returning as the team's premier sprinter. She also will compete in the 400.

McCauley also has two excellent athletes in Samantha Allen, a distance runner who will compete in the half-mile, mile and even the 2-mile run, and teammate Adrienne Bulger, a junior, is one of the better long jumpers in the division.

"We had a disappointing year a year ago, but when you compete against such powerhouses as Dearborn and Edsel Ford, you can expect that be-

It's official EMU Regents hire Woodson

The Eastern Michigan University Board of Regents made it official last week. The Regents approved the appointment of former Romulus High head football coach Mark Woodson as an assistant coach at EMU.

Woodson, who led the Eagles to back-to-back championships in the Mega Conference, will join the staff of head coach Jeff Woodruff.

Woodruff takes over the reins at EMU after serving as the running backs coach at the University of Arizona.

and 1999 at Romulus High, served as head football coach at Romulus from 1995-99. During the past two years, he also was selected as the Michigan Community Newspapers' Coach of the Year.

A three-sport star who earned varsity numerals in football, basketball and track while attending Robichaud High School in the Westwood Community School District, Woodson was a graduate Assistant and volunteer coach at the University of Michigan.

He also served a coaching fellowship with the NFL's San Diego Chargers in 1993.

Woodson earned his Bachelor's of Science from Wayne State University and earned his master's from the University of Michigan in 1993.

Don't forget sports schedules

The fact that the weatherman may have put a damper on the start of the 2000 baseball and softball seasons doesn't seem to be a legitimate enough reason to delay getting those high school spring sports schedules on the MCN Fax.

Although most of the schedules have either been faxed over or mailed to the MCN Sports Desk, schedules have not been received by at least four local high schools.

If you have failed to do so, and are responsible for that chore at your school, please help staffers get the information so that they can assign photographers to upcoming local events.

If you need further information, please contact MCN Staff Writer Tom Mooradian at 734-729-4000. The MCN FAX is 734-729-6088.

MCN staffers cover the following high schools: Belleville, Romulus, Inkster, Dearborn Heights Robichaud, Wayne Memorial, Westland John Glenn, Plymouth-Canton and Plymouth-Salem.

Recreation officials also are urged to get their league softball standings to the Sports Desk as soon as they are available.

There's spring sports in the air

Weather - or - not, rain or shine. Baseball and track and high school soccer is in the air. And Westland John Glenn got the jump on most area teams when they took on Garden City for their non-conference, Year 2000 opener yesterday. Local track and soccer coaches are urged to phone in results of their games and meets the MCN Sports Desk, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. by dialing 734/729-4000.

Baseball beat

Here's what is happening on the local recreation and collegiate sports scene this week:

T-Ballers may sign up

The Westland Youth Athletic Association is registering youngsters between the ages of 4 to 6 for the WYAA's T-Ball League.

There is a $30 per child registration fee. Each player also must actively participate in a fundraiser.

For further information, please telephone 734-421-0640.

Canton seeks league golfers

Canton Parks and Recreation officials this week announced that they are seeking golfers for their men's summer Golf League. The league will begin operations on April 26 at the township-owned Fellow's Creek Golf Course.

League registration is $420, and the fee will cover all league green fees, prize money and league outing and awards.

There is a limit of 36 golfers and officials say that registration deadline is April 14.

Fellows Creek offers a 27-hole facility in Canton on three different 9-hole courses, a clubhouse with pro-shop and a restaurant. The course is located off of westbound Michigan Ave., Lotz Road, east of the I- 275 Expressway.

Competitors are urged to register in person, Monday through Friday, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, 46000 Summit Parkway.

Wayne looking for softball teams

The city of Wayne Parks and Recreation Department is accepting registration for men and women's, Co-Ed, and Men's Over 40 softball teams.

Team managers or their representatives may register at the Wayne Community Center, 4635 Howe Road, from 8:30 a.m. until 9 p.m.

Recreation officials say they plan to field teams in the following divisions: Women's League (Monday); Men's Class D League (Tuesday); Co-Ed League and Men's Over 40 (Wednesday); Men's Class D League (Thursday); Men's Class D, Class E League and Men's Over 40 (Friday).

There is no residency requirement and the season will include between 14 to 15 games, an All-Star Game, playoffs and awards to winning and runner-up teams.

There is a $425 per team registration fee. If interested, contact Steve Winkelman, at 734/721-7400.

Wayne signs up ball players

Ball players who plan to compete in the Wayne Baseball Association's summer leagues have but one more date available to them this month to register.

WBA officials say prospective players may register between the hours of 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. on Saturday, April 8 at the WBA Board Offices, located in Jaycee Park on Annapolis, between Second and Third Streets.

All players will be asked to produce a copy of their birth certificate or other proof of date of birth.

Leagues opened to youngsters this summer include: Shetland, four-to- six years old, $15 registration; Pony (13-14, $35); Pinto (7-8, $15); Colt (15-16, $35); Mustang (8-10, $25) and Palomino (17-18, $45).

The registration fee will include a baseball uniform that each player may keep for the season.

Also, parents should take note that along with the basic registration fees, they may opt to sell one case of candy or pay an additional $45 per family.

The WBA will permit non-residents to play in their summer leagues.

Romulus softball deadline is April 7

Players planning to compete in the Romulus Parks and Recreation summer softball leagues are faced with an April 7 registration deadline.

Recreation officials say that they will field leagues in the following divisions: Monday/Wednesday Men's White Division (Field A). Teams will play a 21-game schedule and there is an 8-team limitation. Registration fee is $575.

There are also Monday/Wednesday Women's, White Division (Field B); Friday Men's Red Division (Field A); Friday Men's Blue Division (Field B) and Sunday Men's Doubleheader, White Division, planned.

For further information, call the recreation department at 942/6852.

Inkster ball club is seeking coaches

I.P.A.C.T. - the Inkster Parents and Children Together organization - is seeking volunteers to coach baseball for the upcoming Little League Baseball season.

If you are 18 years of age and have a solid understanding of the game, and also would like to help children and get them involved in a positive summer recreation program, contact Ruth E. Williams, Inkster Parks and Recreation athletic supervisor.

The program is co-sponsored by the Inkster Parks and Recreation Department.

T-ballers needed

Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department will be registering prospective players for its T-Ball League till April 21. The league is designed for 5 and 6 year olds.

Children must be born between the months of July - December 1993, and Jan.-Dec. 1994, Jan.-July, 1995 to be eligible to play in the league.

A birth certificate is required at the time of registration.

Registration will be accepted at the Recreation Offices located in the Cultural Center, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Canton Softball Center to host Youth Clinic Day

The Canton Softball Center is gearing up for some exciting upcoming events.

On Saturday, April 8, the Center will host a "Free Swing Day" at its brand new batting cages for youth and adults from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. The event is an opportunity for all players to get the bat swinging for the upcoming season and try out the new pitching machines at the complex.

The nine station batting cages include slow-pitch softball, fastpitch softball and fast-pitch baseball for all ages.

The Bud Light First Pitch Adult Softball Tournament will be held from April 8-9.

Barbaro Garbey, former Detroit Tiger, will also be on hand to give free hitting tips from noon to 2 p.m.

The Bud Light First Pitch Adult Softball Tournament will be held from April 8-9, and the Youth Baseball and Softball Clinic Day with the Upper Deck Training Center will run on Saturday, May 6 from 12 to 4 p.m.

The Canton Softball Center is also currently looking for new experienced umpires to work April leagues.

A USSSA Umpires Free Training Session for Adult and Youth Slow Pitch will be held at the Softball Center.

For more information about these upcoming or other Softball Center events, please telephone 734/483-5600.

yard relay team capture the gold and Caleb Beasley, a member of the 800-yard relay team that also captured a first at state a year ago, also return to the Romulus lineup.

Add to the list notable performers Charles Searcy, who can handle the challenges offered in the quarter and the 100 and Henry Staples, who will use his talents in the half-mile, mile and two-mile events, along with Jarvis Jordan, also an excellent quarter-mile, is it no wonder that the Eagles have great expectations for the upcoming season.

By the way, Kevin Thomas, recently named to the Michigan Community Newspapers' All-Area Basketball Team, will do the high jumping for the Eagles.

Romulus also has two excellent long jumpers in Ray Graves and Dave Jones.

On Tuesday, the Eagles will get their first "big" test of the Mega Conference season when Dearborn Heights Robichaud pays them a visit.

During his nearly three decades as coach, Chuck Henry (above, in 1997 photo) has had phenomenal success with his teams at Wayne Memorial. His teams at Wayne have won 289 games while losing 98 and also have captured 11 conference, seven district, three regional championships and made appearances in the state's semifinals twice. Above, Henry, with plaque, is pictured with members and staff of his 1996-97 team was only two victories shy of a coveted State Championship.

and Lavelle Guess distinguished themselves at Kalamazoo Community College while Henry Williams went on to play for Henry Ford Community College.

A product of Riverview High School, Henry went on to play basketball at Monroe Community College and graduated from Eastern Michigan University.

Henry has been employed by the Wayne-Westland Community

School District for the past 29 years and he will remain on the physical education teaching staff.

Romulus coach Guy DeGiudice said it best about a Henry-coached team.

"He may not have the best talent, but coach Henry will always bring the best out of his players and his team. You know that whenever you play one of his teams, you better come ready to play or you're going to be blown out of the gym."

That's what the caliber of coach Agape is getting; unfortunately it also is the kind of coach Wayne Memorial is losing.

Rumberger in the Titan lineup

Former Plymouth-Salem slugger Ryan Rumberger is using his bat in the University of Detroit Mercy baseball lineup.

Rumberger drilled two hits in the Titans 11-9 loss to Ball

State University last week.

The Titans lost to Notre Dame, 10-3, last Tuesday in South Bend, before dropping three games to a strong Ball State squad.

Ex-Romulus star shines on diamond at Alma

A former Romulus High basketball-baseball star will launch his junior baseball season next week at Alma College.

Sean Dick, a 6-2, 175 pound infielder, who earned All-Area recognition in baseball while at Romulus High, will also see duty as a pitcher for the Scots, who captured the 1999 Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship a year ago.

The Scots will be moving into their brand new Klenk Park facility this season and are looking to repeat.

Head coach John Leister is confident that the 18-returning lettermen will help the Scots retain the MIAA title for a second consecutive year.

This year the conference champion earns an automatic bid to the NCAA Tournament and that means Hope, Adrian, and Albion will be gunning for that spot, as well as Alma.

MHSAA announces its school classifications

Though the new rankings will not affect any of the local high schools, the Michigan High School Athletic Association this week announced the new school classifications.

The MHSAA classifications for the upcoming school year are based on a second semester count date, which was Feb. 23.

The enrollment figure submitted for athletic classification may be different from the count submitted for school aid purposes, as it does not include students who are ineligible for athletic competition because they have reached their 19th birthday prior to September 1 of the current school year and will not include alternative education students if none are allowed athletic eligibility by the local school district.

The enrollment breaks by classes for the school year 2000-2001 and the number of schools are listed below. The number in parenthesis is the number of schools assigned to that class.

In Class A, 992 students and above (185 schools); Class B, 495 to 991 (184); Class C, 252 to 494 (184) and Class D, 251 and below (184).

After all the counts are submitted, the 737 member schools are ranked according to enrollment, and then split as closely into quarters as possible.

Effective with the 2000-2001 school year, schools with 992 or more students will compete in Class A in MHSAA competition. The enrollment limits for Class B are 495 to 991; Class C is 252 to 494; and schools with enrollments of 251 and under are Class D.

The break dropped six students between Class A and Class B; decreased four students between Class B and C; and there was a three-student decrease for the break between Class C and Class D.

Schools were recently notified of their classification.

MHSAA Executive Director John E. "Jack" Roberts said that schools may not appeal their classification if the appeal is to play in a lower class.

However, if revised enrollment figures indicate that a school should be playing in a higher class, that school would be moved up.

The new classification breaks will see 29 schools move up in class for 2000-01, while 10 schools will move down.

Schools have the option to play at any higher classification for a minimum of two years, but must exercise the option before April 15 for fall sports, August 15 for winter sports and October 15 for spring sports.

Return to comedy

Romantic comedies are one of the reasons I go to the movies. The make you laugh, cry and cheer all in the same 2-3 hours they are shown. Needless to say the editor did not have to twist my arm to see the new release Return To Me.

Return stars David Duchovny as Bob Rueland an architectural engineer that decides after the death of his wife he will finish her pet project. A zoologist that was unfortunately cut short in her early life by a car accident, she was involved deeply in the primates of Lincoln Park Zoo in Chicago. Her dream was to make a habitat for the gorillas of the zoo to live and flourish and he decides that this will become his main mission in life. His drive and his only worry in life and I mean his only worry. This man is need of a house keeper.

During his drive to complete his wife's final efforts his best buddy Charlie, played by former Detroit David Alan Grier, decides that it is time for Bob to move on after a years worth of burying himself. After a crash and burn date with a big mouthed friend of Charlie's girlfriend at a local Irish-Italian eatery, yeah that is right Irish-Italian, after he decides to run for it he bumps into Grace.

A waitress at the restaurant Grace, played by Minnie Driver, has one little quality that Bob is drawn to but he doesn't even know it. Grace is a recent owner of a heart transplant. She is still afraid though. Afraid to fall in love and be treated like she is a fragile porcelain doll.

Yet when Bob approaches her she feels something a little different about him, a little familiar, a little special. So when he asks her to share an evening with him, hesitant at first, of course she says yes.

After spending a couple of months in each others company she still is afraid to open her self and her secrets up to him, but she is coaxed into revealing it all to him by her best friend Megan, played by director/co-writer of this film Bonnie Hunt. She pleads with Grace to be open and honest with him and he will be the man she wants. Finally after many discussions Grace decides to have the talk. That's when their love goes awry.

As one of the first romantic comedies this year Return to Me is wonderful. The casting is beautiful. Duchovny makes up for that weirdo doctor movie that he was in a couple years back. I think if he wants to make anymore feature films, for him, this will be the way to go. The rest of the cast well hooray! You have beautiful Minnie driver, arrogant Carroll O'Conner, comedic Bonnie Hunt and the ever loving James Belushi. Man what a rouse of characters to play such, well, characters. The other players in this comedy of fun and love are just as wonderful as the main characters that revolve around them.

The story line is, in this day and age with the craziness around, is believable to a certain extent. Up to the point about the heart anyway.

The music is a great smogageborge of the big band era that can make your toes tap and your heart swoon. Realizing everyone else in the theater is doing the same tough is a wonderful thing.

This is a wonderful date movie or just one of those movies you want to feel good about. You just involve yourself in the wonderful craziness of everyone else's lives and you realize that maybe yours is normal, you just didn't know it.

DURHAM-ARNEY 2-13-56 to 3-24-00

Colleen J. (Durham) Arney age 44 of Davis, CA. originally from Romulus, MI. Colleen graduated from Romulus High School in 1974, attended Michigan State and Ohio State Universities. Her career consisted of managerial positions at Holiday Inn, Bennigans, and CED to name a few. She was a loving and dedicated mother to Shannon M. Arney and Angela Arney (stepdaughter). Survived by her father William, mother Mickey, sisters Karen, Connie, and Caroline, nephew Brandon, and companion Richard Barak. Also survived by a host of aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends. Memorial contributions can be made in Colleen's name to: American Cancer Society for Colon Cancer Research and Yolo Hospice P.O. Box 1014 Davis, CA. "If love alone could have saved her, she would still be here with us." She will be greatly missed.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF Colleen J. Arney

God saw she was getting tired,
And a cure was not to be.
So he put his arms around her,
And whispered, "Come with me."
With tearful eyes we watched her suffer
And saw her fade away.
Although we loved her dearly,
We could not make her stay.
A golden heart stopped beating,
Hard working hands to rest.
God broke our hearts to prove to us,
He only takes the BEST.

Spring Cleanee Going on now

We at Atchinson are not the biggest so we work harder on personal quality and competitive pricing. You will find our sales staff congenial, warm and personal. "No Pushy Salesmen." Each car or truck is cleaned, thoroughly inspected and warranted. Joe Williams says, "We have a large selection of pre-owned cars and trucks and we promise to fit the right car for the right person." Easy access from I-94 or Michigan Ave. We look forward to meeting you.
